

Development Engineer (m/w/d)

Location Dresden (Germany)
Permanent
Full Time

Imagine a job where you will have the opportunity to do exciting and challenging work, while collaborating with extraordinary colleagues. A company that invests in you and your career, providing the training, mentoring, development and support you need to be successful now and in the future. If you want a career without limits with a market-leading family-owned, global company where you can make an impact, then imagine an opportunity at Heraeus. Every day, our worldwide team of nearly 15,000 employees are bringing forward new ideas and solutions that are impacting and transforming everything from healthcare to renewable energy to e-mobility to high-tech and telecommunications.

Your role and responsibilities:

- You develop and build prototypes - draft and hands on - for medical devices designed for treatments of the human body to improve the well-being of patients worldwide.
- In your position you will work closely with other engineers, assistants and RAQA representatives throughout the company as well as with our partners and customers on challenging projects to bring a product from concept through clinicals.
- During your material research, you interact with our customers to incorporate their feedback directly into your work.
- You will develop new processes for our products and document your work with the help of our R&D assistants within our PLM system.

What is required for this role:

- Degree in biomedical or mechanical (plastics) engineering
- Several years of professional industry experience with design & process development in the medical device or similar industry
- Excellent communication skills in German and English (written and spoken)
- Medical product/ catheters and medical device standard knowledge (ISO 13485/ FDA requirements)
- Ability to travel occasionally to customers or study locations throughout the world (15%)
- Driving license (category B) needed

If you want to do more than make a living, at Heraeus you can make a difference. We offer attractive compensation, top-notch benefits, and an ideal environment that supports your professional development. You can find more information at www.contract-medical.com.

Send us your application in English via email to: jobs@cmi-med.com.